

Plans Are Taking Form for Flower Show Here

Annual Display To Be Saturday and Sunday in Room at Northwest Corner of Main and Church.

Flower lovers and amateur flower and plant fanciers alike will find much to interest them at the second annual flower show to be sponsored by the Marion Garden club Saturday and Sunday. The public may view the show in the room at the northwest corner of Church and Main streets, where it was held last year.

Members of the club and the committee, headed by Mrs. Frank R. Mann, general chairman, are busy this week with the preliminary preparations for the show which will open at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

The exhibits for awards will be open to all amateur flower and plant growers of the city and no entry fee will be charged, the committee announces.

Fourteen classes have been provided and the club will furnish containers for the display of flowers to give the section a uniform appearance. In the perennial classes, both mixed and sections of one variety, for arrangements of flowers in bowls, vases and baskets for centerpiece arrangements and for arrangement of flowers in pairs of vases, the exhibitor must furnish the container.

The exhibit, which provides for entries in all classes shown last year, has been enlarged and will include awards for corages and novelties.

Announcements Rules Mrs. Mann today announced the rules for the exhibit entries and the classes and sub-divisions. This is the only time there will be announced she stated.

The rules are: 1. Entry giving name and number of class entered should be in the room by 11 o'clock Saturday morning. The room will be open from 8:30 o'clock on to receive exhibits.

2. On arrival at the show exhibitors should report to Miss Geraldine Ford and her committee and receive exhibitor's entry tag, which should be placed on exhibit; otherwise the exhibit will be disqualified.

3. No exhibit may be removed until the show closes, except in cases that change daily.

4. All exhibits must be ready for judging at 11 o'clock Saturday morning; otherwise they will be disqualified.

5. Only the judges and others in authority will be allowed in the exhibition room during the judging.

6. First, second and third mention will be indicated by blue, red and yellow ribbons affixed to the exhibitor's entry tag.

7. While all exhibits will be carefully guarded, the management will not be responsible for loss or damage to exhibits or personal property of exhibitors.

8. The club has arranged for police protection of the exhibit on Saturday night.

9. A sweepstakes award will be made to the exhibitor receiving the most points. A blue ribbon will be given to the exhibitor receiving the most points.

Classes in the show and the sub-divisions follow: Class one, perennials, a. single, b. double, c. Japanese, d. tree; class two, columbine, a. named, b. unnamed; class three, delphinium, a. hybrid, b. single, c. double, d. unnamed; class four, iris, a. named, b. unnamed; class five, geranium, a. named, b. unnamed; class six, pansy, a. named, b. unnamed; class seven, carnation, a. named, b. unnamed; class eight, flower arrangements, a. in bowls or vases, b. in baskets; class nine, table centerpieces, including centerpiece, a. named, b. unnamed; class ten, flower arrangements, a. in bowls or vases, b. in baskets; class eleven, miniature arrangements not more than seven inches in height, container to conform; class twelve, flowering shrubs, named class 13, corages; class 14, novelties.

$14,700 RANSOM CASH GIVEN TO LINDBERGH

Prosecutor Deposits Funds Taken from Hauptmann to Flier's Account in N. Y.

By The Associated Press TRENTON, N. J., June 9 — Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck of Hunterdon county said last night he had turned over to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's New York representatives the $14,700 ransom paid from the $50,000 ransom paid in hope of saving the Lindbergh baby's life.

Hauck said he met Col. Henry Breckinridge in New York yesterday afternoon and the two went to the Bankers Trust Co. and deposited the money in Col. Lindbergh's name.

"There was a strict understanding, however," Hauck explained, "that the bank is to hold the money intact for quite some time. That was a precaution in case some question is raised as to the proper disposition of the money."

Attorney General David T. Williams revealed a communication had been received from Col. Lindbergh in England advising the New Jersey state police and Prosecutor Hauck to give Col. Breckinridge any of his property used in connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping-murder case.

The $14,700 was found in possession of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the baby's murder.

J. H. HAMMOND IS FOUND DEAD

Famed Multi-Millionaire Once Was Sentenced to Hang by Boers in Africa.

By The Associated Press GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 8 — John Hays Hammond Sr., a Californian who started on a shoe-string and became a multi-millionaire mining expert, died suddenly of a heart attack at his palatial estate, Lookout Hill, here late yesterday. He was 61.

The man who had been the friend and confidant of Presidents, emperors and kings, and who had seen his empire built and just plain miners died in his study while reading.

William Griffin, his secretary, found Hammond's body in a chair. Hammond had been in ill health for a year, but he arrived at Lookout Hill Saturday from Washington apparently in much better health. He took an active part in superintending the opening of his estate for the summer season.

Visited by Old Friend Death came to Hammond just as an old friend, Mrs. Edward M. House, wife of Col. House, once-time adviser to former President Woodrow Wilson, called to visit him.

One of Hammond's outstanding exploits during an adventurous career was participation in a "reform" movement against the administration of Oom Paul Kruger just before the outbreak of the Boer war in the Transvaal republic. He and the others were captured by a trap set by Kruger. Four leaders, including Hammond, were convicted of high treason by a Boer council and sentenced to hang. Secretary of State Olney sent Kruger a warm message demanding Hammond's release. Kruger had the death sentences commuted to life imprisonment and told his council they were worth more to the Boers alive than dead, and offered to free them if they paid fines of $125,000 each. Oom Paul's act netted his republic more cash than it ever had in its treasury before.

Sought Adventure The mining engineer sought adventure throughout his life. He was a friend of such notables as Cecil Rhodes, Theodore Roosevelt, Mark Twain, Rudyard Kipling and Rider Haggard.

He had a palatial home in Washington as well as Gloucester and had offices in London and New York.

John Hays Hammond Jr., the celebrated inventor, was at his estate near that of his father when news of the latter's death came. Richard Piddell Hammond, the youngest son, who is a composer, recently arrived to occupy a new home on the north shore. There is a daughter, Miss Natalie Hammond, and a third son, Harris Hammond, of New York City.

A sister, Miss Elizabeth Hammond, who always traveled with the elder Hammond, was at the estate here.

Lived with Miners Hammond was born in San Francisco March 31, 1855. As a boy he rubbed shoulders with the sturdy gold miners of his home state, and used to spend his vacations with them, watching them pan gravel and dirt. His father sent him to Yale, where he graduated in 1878 with the degree of Ph. B. from the Sheffield Scientific school. Yale later conferred upon him the degree of A. M. He devoted three years to study at the Royal School of Mines at Freiberg, Saxony, and returned to this country to open his office as a gold assayer. He went with the United States Geological survey as an expert examining California gold mines. Two years later he was fighting bandits and revolutionists in gold fields of the west coast of Mexico. He returned home with $20 in pocket. He took a series of jobs as consulting engineer and attracted attention of "Barney" Barnato, South African exploiter, who employed him to go there to develop his mines, and at his own figure.

Later, Hammond was connected with the British South Africa Co. and the Randfontein Estates Gold Mining Co., but left them to accompany Cecil Rhodes, who sold most of his valuable property to the horror of his other counselors, and invested in gold lands suggested by Hammond, which today produce at the rate of $75,000,000 annually.

CENSUS NEARS FINISH HERE

Survey of Business and Manufacturing in District To End by July 1.

The eighth congressional district is a part of the nation's census of business and manufacturing started early this year is rapidly nearing completion and probably will be finished by July 1. It was announced today by Paul L. Wine, chief of the district's census supervisor with headquarters in Marion.

Of the peak force of 45 persons employed in the census there remain six in Marion county, one in Crawford county, one in Wyandot, two in Hardin and three in Hancock. Work probably will be finished in all of the counties this week with the exception of Marion which is already finished and Hancock, to be finished the month of August.

Information collected by enumerators in this district will be sent from the district office here to federal census bureau offices where summaries will be compiled showing the number of business and industrial concerns in various areas, the volume of business handled by these concerns and the types of business and manufacturing in which they are engaged.

The last nationwide census of business and manufacturing was taken in 1933 but it was not as comprehensive as the one now nearing completion. Mr. Wine said.

Enumerators he added found the work difficult because of the reluctance of some business men to give the detailed information concerning their business sought by the census workers. The information will not be made public regarding individual businesses or manufacturing concerns but will be used to build up a comprehensive business and industrial picture for the different communities, counties, districts and states it was explained.

Although enumerators work is to be finished by July 1, Mr. Wine said he probably will maintain the district office here until July 15. It is located in the Marion office of Congressman Brook Fletcher at 122 South State street.

REGISTRATION OPEN IN MUSIC CLASSES

Boys and Girls More Than 12 Years Old May Enter Courses.

Registration in emergency school classes for instruction in stringed instruments was opened today to Marion county boys and girls over 12 years of age. Carl L. Lister, emergency school supervisor, announced. The classes will augment adult instruction now being given under the direction of Thomas Finch of 282 South State street.

Enrollment may be made either at the Finch studio or at Mr. Lister's office at the Marion County Relief headquarters at 351 South Prospect street. With the beginning of school vacations the younger age groups may be taken in emergency school classes. Mr. Lister said. They will be instructed in groups. Individual instruction is not permitted although the director may give out side help to members of the classes. Mr. Lister said.

At present approximately 150 persons are attending the classes organized earlier this spring for older age groups. Enrollment will continue throughout this week after which a schedule of classes will be arranged. The classes will include instruction in violin, mandolin, guitar and Hawaiian guitar. An appeal to persons having discarded instruments to give them

Month Not All That Could Have Been Desired

May may not have been all that the summer bounds thought it should be but when temperatures for the month are averaged they show a 67 degree average for the month of 67.6 which statistics show would be the average for the 31 days.

On 13 days the mercury rose to 80 or above and on the other 18 days it was 60 or below. The all time high reading for May 1933 was 87 and the record low was 47. The average for the month was 67.6 degrees.

Marion's shivered many nights under blankets and considered May 1933 one of the coldest records but the fact is that in 1936 the drop in temperature was to 20 degrees while last month the lowest temperature recorded was 27.

The lack of rainfall this spring which already has brought forth predictions of poor crops was evident in May when the total precipitation for the month was 2.79 inches a matter of 90 of an inch below the normal rainfall for Marion.

There have been some years when a trace of snow has fallen in the city but this year Marion didn't see a snowflake.

Memorial day was one of the coldest of the month with the mercury rising only as far as the 65 degree mark and patriotic persons wore heavy coats to watch the parade and attend the services.

Cloudy and clear days were evenly divided 11 each with nine partly cloudy from sunrise to sunset.

PENSION RULES ARE CLARIFIED

Explains Changes Resulting from Receipt of Aid from U. S.

The federal social security act will have on old age pensioners in Marion county and the surrounding area, explained today by Mr. Kirby, Marion county administrator, who said he wished to correct the impression of the majority of the aged that the pension will be increased by the federal government steps which picture next month.

The federal grant of aid does not mean an increase in the pension, but is a grant to the state for the purpose of assisting the aged in meeting its present obligations. The aged, the administrator said, the federal government will pay one-half of the total amount expended by the state in providing each quarter, but not exceeding a total payment in each quarter of $15 a month. There is a widespread impression that the federal aid will automatically increase the aid paid in each month, but this is not so, Mr. Kirby pointed out. All awards will continue to be based on a budget plan depending on the actual needs of the applicant.

Estimates for Year
Expenditures for food, shelter, clothing and miscellaneous items are estimated for the year, and also incomes from employment and contributions from responsible relatives must be taken into consideration. And after making such deductions, the amount of aid needed is determined. The present maximum award in Ohio is $25 a month. When the amended law goes into effect on July 26, the maximum will be $30 a month. However in only a few cases do pensioners receive the maximum in Marion county, Mr. Kirby said.

The average monthly payment to pensioners here is slightly more than $15 a month. The social security program will not mean an increase in this amount, the administrator said. There are now 851 persons in Marion county on the old age pension rolls. These people receive more than $14,000 a year, Mr. Kirby pointed out.

One of the principal reasons why there cannot be a general increase in the amount of awards is that in order to conform with the social security act the residence and citizenship requirements of our present state law had to be reduced. Instead of applicants being required to be residents of the state 15 years, under the federal act this has been reduced to five years within the last nine years, and where our law has required citizenship of 15 years, the federal law changes this to mere citizenship. In Marion county applicants must be residents one year prior to making application for aid and have lived in the state a total of five years since 1927.

As a result of these more liberal provisions in our amended law, Mr. Kirby said, a large number of new applicants will be added to the rolls and Ohio will continue to be confronted with the tremendous problem of raising sufficient funds for the payment of awards to the aged.

The broad general purpose underlying the federal plan is to assist the states in carrying the heavy load of providing aid for the aged, and this object would be defeated if the states would increase the awards automatically to the extent of the federal grants, it has been pointed out.

Another point brought out by Mr. Kirby is that the federal government is going to take off of relief rolls all persons 65 years of age or older who can qualify for old age assistance, and the average award under the old age pension plan is higher than that which they are receiving from relief.

GRADS WILL RETURN TO O. S. U. CAMPUS

"Alumni College" Will Be in Session Thursday, Friday and Saturday Morning for Ohio State University Alumni Who Return to the Campus for the Commencement Season.

An "alumni college" will be in session Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning for Ohio State university alumni who return to the campus for the commencement program, according to word received from the university by J. N. Helphinger of 332 East Center street, alumni district governor for Marion, Hardin, Wyandot and Hancock counties.

At the "alumni college" the "old grads" will again hear lectures by the favorite professors of their college days. A faculty of 20 has been recruited to help bring the alumni up-to-date in "This Changing World," which will be the theme for the college sessions.

Enrollment in the college will be free and preparations are being made for a student body of 1,000. College days will be reenacted further for the returning alumni, through the "extra-curricular" program of athletics, teas, and dramatics and the opportunity to live once again in college dormitories.

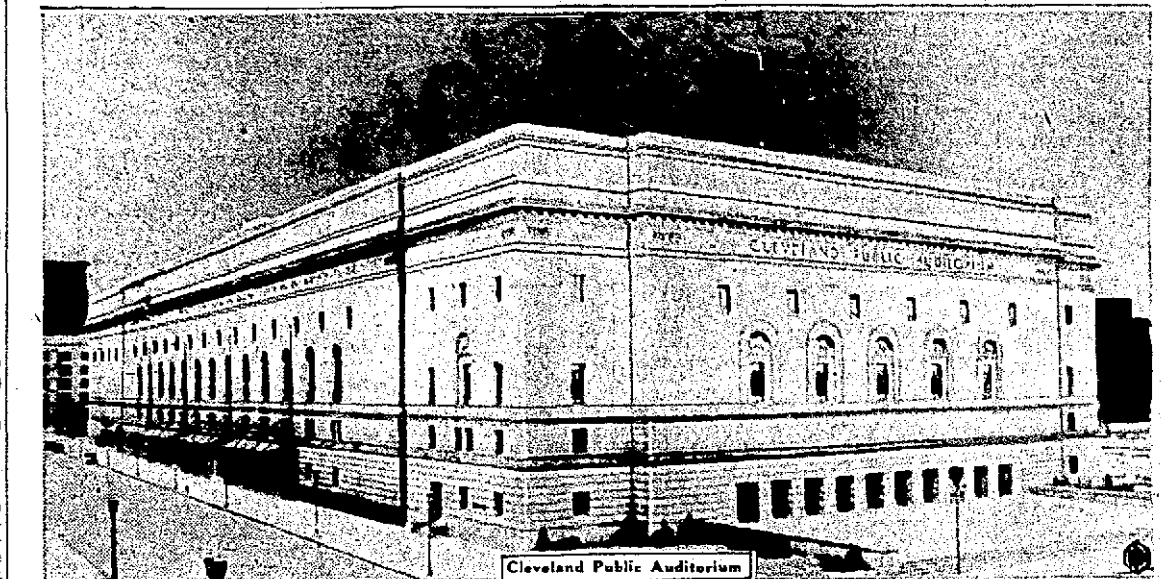

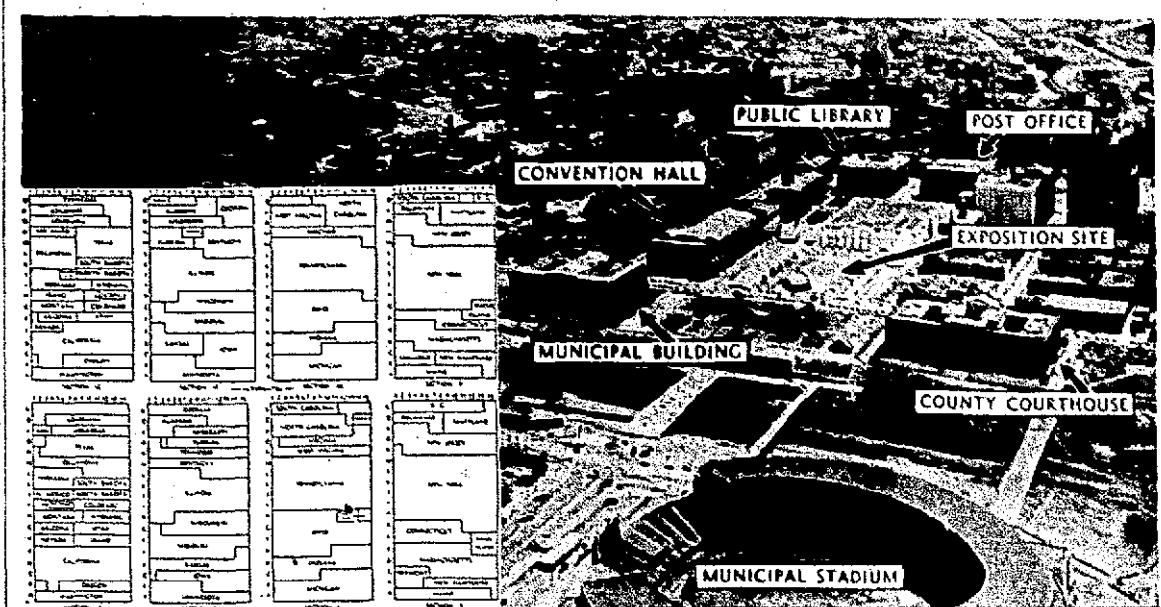

Saturday will be the day of fun and frolic for the returning alumni, the day's program including a golf match, class reunions, a track meet, sunset supper under stadium, and the all-alumni dance. Another event of that day will be the legal clinic and luncheon which probably will be attended by several Marion attorneys.

The alumni program will start Thursday morning and reach its climax on Saturday. Baccalaureate is set for Sunday afternoon, class day exercises for Monday morning and commencement Monday afternoon in the stadium.

MARIONITES AT G. O. P. PARLEY

At Least Nine Will Attend Cleveland Convention from Here.

Marion will be well represented at sessions of the Republican national convention which opened in Cleveland this morning. At least nine persons are planning to attend one or more days.

Fred W. Warner, eighth district Republican state central committee member, Bud H. Lawson, chairman of the Marion County Republican central and executive committees, Mrs. W. N. Harder, an eighth district alternate to the convention, and Mr. Harder were in Cleveland yesterday and are expected to remain through the convention.

French Crow, former Marion postmaster, was to leave this morning. Others planning to attend are Mrs. Cora McKeever, Miss Edith Ebling, Miss Mary Kull and Willard Durfee.

The eighth district will be represented officially at the convention by Henry Harvey of Kenton and James McMahon of Coshocton, delegates elected at the May 12 primary. Mrs. Harder of Marion and Alton Greig of Upper Sandusky are alternates.

It was unofficially reported that only six convention tickets were allotted to Marion county. Several persons obtained tickets from "outside sources" and others planned to go to the convention in the hope that the quotas for western states would not be filled and that some tickets intended for those states might be available.

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Slowly, detail by detail, the mystery which has surrounded Hope Leslie from the time she married Rupert Leslie after an hour's acquaintance to the moment when she was shot in the room by her own brother, is being cleared up. Hope herself is explaining, and the mystery is being solved. The story has never been able to get hope out of his mind since he first saw her in a black dress in a tea room in New Jersey.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

Badger Game

"RODDIE was no angel, but he hadn't been like this," Hope went on. "That terrible thing Torrobin sold made him wild. He was hiding. That is, he was hiding Roddie. When I rode back into the hills to the little 'dobe' house where they were, he denied that Roddie was there. But Roddie heard my voice and came out. I hope I forget what he looked like."

"They seemed to be waiting for another man for some word of him. When I told them about the arroyo, and that rangers had chased me, and about the bank robber who was killed, they decided without a word to leave."

"I understood. All at once I knew. But I made Roddie tell me. When Torrobin went out to make arrangements for their leaving, I made Roddie talk to me. He couldn't remember clearly, but he knew what had happened."

"I couldn't see him go back. I couldn't see him die. I wanted him to return the money, but Torrobin, of course, refused."

"Torrobin and Roddie left for New York. Torrobin wouldn't have me with them, and it was just as well. It would have made constant trouble between him and Roddie. However, I might have tried to avoid it. But I made Roddie promise to keep in close touch with me, so that I might follow, and he did."

"They left that night by train, and I the next. And I wrote to Mother. I couldn't tell her about Roddie's trouble, for her own sake. I couldn't even hint it. But I told her I had found him, and that I was going to New York with him. I asked her to forgive me for breaking my promise to come straight home, and for using the money to go away. I told her I would pay back the money."

"She felt that this was a cruel and a heartless letter. She wrote me afterwards that it was. But I did pay back the money, though not till I had married Rupert."

"Torrobin had taken Bowie with them. He had certain plans for Bowie and Roddie."

"The first thing he did after that fight he had with Roddie was to take Roddie's gun away. Roddie bought himself another before he left Texas. The pearl-handled one; and I took that. I was always afraid he would kill Torrobin."

"Torrobin was wise to bring Bowie. Bowie made money. Bowie and Roddie together. They were with a big show at first, but it went down to Texas for the winter. Then they got odd jobs in smaller shows, in and around New York. Merritt's was one of them."

"Then Leonor, the equestrienne who was billed as 'Firefly,' took French leave of Merritt's show, and when Roddie told me about it I went over without saying anything to Torrobin, and got Mr. Merritt to give me the place."

"I made a hit. To my surprise, Torrobin seemed glad to see me. It turned out that he wanted me to take Leonor's place in the game he and Chowdhury were playing—a sort of badger game."

"Chow would predict to her client that he would soon meet a dark lady—it was written in the stars—and that happiness or fortune or both hung upon this meeting. Just how this dark lady was to solve his problem was not clear, even to Chow, but the prophecy proved a sufficient introduction for beautiful Leonor, at least in one case."

"A troubled Hobokenite whose problem was a misunderstanding wife, looked for the lucky dark lady every time the clock struck. When Leonor with her eyes and her Spanish accent walked into his office one morning, selling calendars, he knew that his hour had come."

"It was more than a matter of calendars with him. But Leonor was young. She was demure and shy. America was so very strange, she said. He had to do a lot of persuading, but she finally got him to cross the Hudson river with her and they went to a New York hotel. Whereupon Torrobin, following almost at once, tracked them to their room, and entered into the role of the outraged and dangerous father."

"It worked like magic. At least for the moment. The gentleman from Hoboken had money and he paid it gladly to escape with his life and his good name. He had, too, though you might suspect it, a certain amount of intelligence. He was not long in connecting the dark lady and her connecting father with Madame Chowdhury. He quietly started investigations, and later trapped Madame at this same game in Atlantic City."

"Whether Leonor got wind of

J. H. HAMMOND ON MEMORIAL BOARD

John Hays Hammond, multi-millionaire mining expert who died last night, at Gloucester, Mass., was a member of the board of trustees of the Harding Memorial association. An account of his death appears elsewhere in today's Star.

Mr. Hammond was one of the early organizers of the association and was first vice president of the board of trustees. A new member to take the place left vacant by Hammond's death will be elected at the annual meeting of the board next October.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tells Brixton of Ronald's Letter of Financial Troubles to Marion.

FOR THE fraction of a second, I fairly held my breath as Dicky hesitated in answering my proposal that I drive Samuel Brixton to New Haven in our car, while he followed in the Brixton car. Seeing his eyes go appraisingly to the other man's face, I knew that if he had read anything in it which would cause him uneasiness, he would promptly veto my scheme. But the next instant his answer came cheerily and heartily.

"Why? of course," he said. "Excellent arrangement! Where shall I find your car, old man?"

In the garage, Mr. Brixton replied. "I have given them instructions to turn it over to you. It is all serviced for the journey."

"So is ours," Dicky returned. "If we have luck, we won't have to stop until we reach New Haven. I shouldn't try to tell you—that's always unsatisfactory. Where shall we meet?"

"I was going directly to Vanderbilt Hall," Mr. Brixton said. "Ronald and Bob have rooms in that dormitory. Ronald doesn't know I am coming, but I can find him."

Dicky's park as near the entrance as I can, and wait for you to look me up," Dicky said. "I fancy I'll get there first, for my wife, I understand, has much that she wants to say to you. And remember, whatever she says, I am behind her one hundred per cent. So long, old chap!"

Dicky left, and we climbed into the car and drove off. But I spoke no word of my mission until we were well away from the city, traveling the beautiful broad Hutchinson Parkway. It was Samuel Brixton who broached the subject first.

"Isn't it possible for you to tell me now what is wrong with Ronald?" he said. "I am nearly crazy imagining things."

"I must have your promise first to control yourself, and take my story calmly," I said firmly. "I cannot risk an accident."

"I can promise that," he said.

The Stars Say--

For Tuesday, June 9

For Wednesday, June 10
A day of stirring events, with much enterprise and initiative, is forecast by the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. It is a time of splendid promise and opportunity, especially in the launching of new projects, where the cooperation and friendship of those in places of prominence and authority are needed. These may be approached with confidence, and it is also propitious for approaching employers for promotion or favors. But shun extravagance and be discreet in personal life.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent opportunities for advancement, preferment, honors and the support of those in place and power in promoting meritorious projects or bold ventures.

A child born on this day may be energetic, bold, adventurous and ambitious, and may reach important position through its creative ability and the preferment of those in power.

An Englishman has developed a wireless telephonic that uses a flash lamp and microphone operated by the same battery to transmit the voice over a beam of light.

At a rule, ivy poisoning follows direct contact of the skin with some part of the poison ivy plant. But it may also be contracted in an indirect way. It is known to follow the handling of tools, clothing, or other objects that are contaminated with the pollen of the poisonous plant.

It is for this reason that persons who are extremely susceptible to poison ivy are warned against walking through the countryside or in wooded sections, unless protected by adequate clothes and gloves. Avoid undue exposure of the bare skin to leaves, bushes and trees.

If you have been exposed to poisoning by ivy and observe itching and inflammation of the skin, take a warm bath and thoroughly scrub the body with an alkaline soap. Follow this with an alcohol sponge. If alcohol is not available, gasoline may be used.

Relief of the itching is obtained by applying a soothing preparation, such as calamine lotion. Hyposulphate of soda, a tablespoonful to a half glass of water, makes an excellent local application.

was worried about Ronald. He interrupted me at that point.

"I can see why she wrote to you instead of her mother," he said. "Lillian doesn't care very much for Ronald or anybody connected with him. But I can't blame her," he concluded heavily.

"I'm sure you're wrong," I said mendaciously, but confident that I was not stretching the truth too far. When the news of the Brixton financial tragedy should come to Lillian, I knew that her warm and generous heart would submerge all rancor in the desire to help.

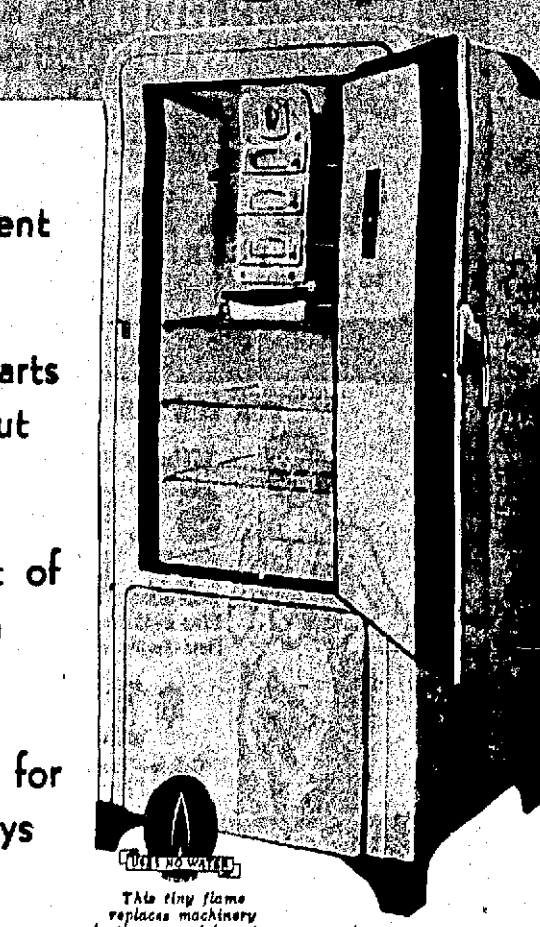

"But what was worrying Marion?" Mr. Brixton asked in the next breath, and I returned to the story.

"Remember again that this is in the strictest confidence," I warned, and he nodded in earnest assent.

Told Her Troubles.
"Ronald told her in his letter,"
